

I am a firm supporter and advocate of the "do not call" list in effort to protect consumer telephone privacy. I have greatly appreciated the significant reduction in unsolicited most often scripted and completly dehumanized phone calls. I however would not object to the calls that come in that have a proven genuine interest in consumer affairs such as those that advocate for people and their families.